

Razer Kraken Pro V2: a deep immersion in the game

Published by Jean_M1ch

An upgraded version of the Kraken Pro, this bass-boosted gaming headphone is planned to be used in shooting games where footsteps and explosion matter a lot.

Description

Made by Razer - a famous company that sells gaming hardware - the Kraken Pro V2 has two memory foam cushions with either a round or an oval form. A retractable microphone you can position as you like. It can be connected to all platforms as it uses a jack plug with an adapter for PC users. There are different colors for this product such as green, pink or white. There is also a special wrap in collaboration with PewDiePie - the world first Youtuber to hit the 100M subscribers.

Evaluation

The Kraken Pro V2 is a really good headphone with great sound, especially for gaming purpose since it makes footsteps easier to hear. The cushions are incredibly comfortable and fits well around ears. The microphone is easy to position around your mouth and stands where you placed it. It has a long life span - I have been using it since three years now. However, the cushions are fragile and tend to unravel after one year and a half. It also has a massive aspect, so when someone wears it, he looks weird and the microphone is hard to configure.

This headset costing around 90$ (depending on where you buy it) is worth the price. The main appeal is the sound quality, having a frequency response between 12 Hz and 28 kHz, low frequencies are properly enhanced and it shows in game. Of course, it needs to be used for long gaming sessions to make it profitable, if you are more a casual gamer, another one will be better.

Comparison

In order to understand why the Razer Kraken Pro V2 is probably the best headphone for long gaming session, I will compare it with the HyperX Cloud II.

Autonomy: unlimited
Connectivity: wired
Weight: 0.71 lbs
Frequency boost: bass
Memory foam: cushions
Price: ≈90$

Autonomy: unlimited
Connectivity: wired
Weight: 1.76 lbs
Frequency boost: none
Memory foam: none
Price: ≈70$

To conclude, The Kraken Pro V2 is more expensive but is comfortable and pretty light. On the other side, The HyperX Cloud II is cheaper but heavier. So the first one is made for hardcore gamers that are used to play a lot and the second one is more casual gamer oriented.

Recommandation

I highly recommend this headphone for any experimented gamer that play a lot daily. Its cushions and weight make it easy to wear during hours at the point you may forget it is on your head. However do not forget that cushions may unravel and you will need to buy others for around 15$. Overall, the Razer Kraken Pro V2 is a really good headset for a 100$ budget and it is worth the price.

My evaluation :

Jean_M1ch

A big fan of Tetris and Pong. During my youth, they used to call me “The Shadow Player”. Coach of the famous team SKT T1, I search daily for the best equipments in the market for my players.